Righteous Dopefiend

PHILIPPE BOURGOIS and
JEFF SCHONBERG

"Bourgeois and Schonberg deliver luminous images and intimate portraits of unforgettable Dickensian characters... whose addiction consigns them to lives of public ignominy and private pleasures transacted under the concrete freeway overpasses of a totally indifferent San Francisco. This tough book is a must-read for all." —Nancy Scheper-Hughes, author of *Death Without Weeping

Birth Models That Work

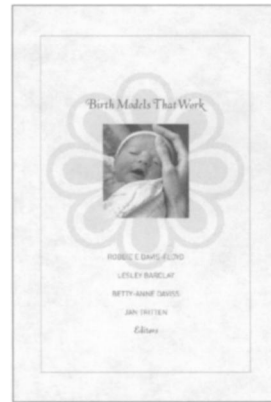

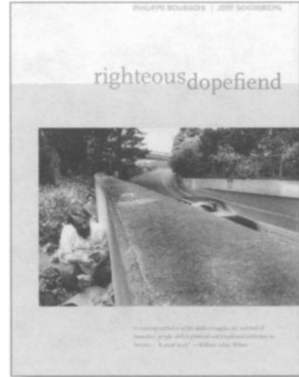

ROBBIE E. DAVIS-FLOYD, LESLEY
BARCLAY, BETTY-ANNE DAVISS,
and JAN TRITTEN, Editors

"A major contribution to the global struggle for control of women's bodies and their giving birth and should be read by all obstetricians, midwives, obstetric nurses, pregnant women and anyone else with interest in maternity care. It documents the worldwide success of programs for pregnancy and birth which honor the women and put them in control of their own reproductive lives."

Information for Contributors

The Medical Anthropology Quarterly: International Journal for the Analysis of Health publishes research and theory in the field of medical anthropology. This field is broadly taken to include all inquiries into health, disease, illness, and sickness in human individuals and populations that are undertaken from the holistic and cross-cultural perspective distinctive of anthropology as a discipline, that is, with an awareness of species' biological, cultural, linguistic, and historical uniformity and variation. It encompasses, but is not limited to, studies of ethnomedicine, epidemiology, maternal and child health, population, diet and nutrition, human development in relation to health and disease, health-care providers and services, public health, health policy, technologies of health and illness, and the language and speech of health and health care.

The journal's purpose is to stimulate debate on and development of ideas and methods in medical anthropology and to explore the relationships of medical anthropology to health practice, the parent discipline of anthropology, and other disciplines concerned with human illness and wellness. To accomplish these ends, the editors particularly welcome theoretical and conceptual articles, as well as those that present the results of theory-based research. Research reviews, reports of applied research, and articles that use the special subject matter of medical anthropology to contribute to central problems in anthropology are also encouraged. Manuscripts that approach health, disease, and illness from a biological, cultural, linguistic, or holistic perspective are considered.

Medical Anthropology Quarterly publishes articles, review articles, book reviews, and occasional film reviews. Review articles and book and film reviews are solicited by the relevant editor. All manuscript submissions are anonymously refereed by at least three reviewers.

Submitting Your Manuscript

New! As of April 1, 2008, all manuscripts must be submitted online through Manuscript Central, a Web-based peer review and online submission application for scholarly publishers, used by Wiley-Blackwell, publisher of MAQ. It can be reached at <http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/maq>. Follow the directions there to create an account and start the submission process.

MAQ follows Chicago Manual of Style, 15th ed., for most matters of style, and Webster's Collegiate Dictionary, 11th ed., for spelling. For a guide to Chicago style, we recommend looking at http://www.aaanet.org/pubs/style_guide.pdf. More information regarding submission may be found at <http://www.medanthro.net/maq/contributors.html>.

Please double-space all text and use 12-point font, preferably Times Roman. Allow standard one-inch margins throughout the manuscript. Articles submitted to MAQ should not exceed 8,500 words, including everything! If you feel you absolutely must exceed the word limit, email maqsma@wayne.edu and petition the editors to make an exception. You are required to submit an abstract (no more than 150 words) and three to five keywords for your manuscript. Empirica articles must include a methodology section.

Nota Bene Manuscripts are reviewed anonymously, so prepare your manuscript to facilitate the double-blind review. Avoid references to your own work or cite it judiciously and formally without self-reference.

Manuscripts submitted to MAQ must not be under simultaneous consideration by any other journal or book publisher, or have been published elsewhere.

Queries regarding style and format should be directed to the Managing Editor, Ellen McCarthy, maqsma@wayne.edu.

Correspondence related to permissions, subscription and membership, advertising, changes of address, and all other areas should be sent to: MAQ, American Anthropological Association, 4350 North Fairfax Drive, Suite 640 Arlington, VA 22203-1620.

As determined by the Awards Committee of the Society for Medical Anthropology, the best article published in each volume of MAQ receives the Polgar Prize.
